

The Washington Post

STYLE

Theater Notes

By James Lardner

No one's counting, but this holiday season could set a record for most productions of "A Christmas Carol" in the Washington area—perhaps in the country as a whole too. Here's one local twist to the tradition: A group called the Video Buddies is presenting a version of Dickens' story with a Scrooge based on Ronald Reagan, and a Marley based on Richard Nixon.